“ Carl and Karen invented the term "agri business." Whether crops, livestock, or tilling the soil, he was always a step ahead. Watching his boys step into their own farming operations, they emulate his willingness to take risks, not content to drive circles in a field or produce inferior livestock. His entire family is a team, his greatest legacy.

Hard working, rough, and a farmer's tan, Carl wore the sharpest western suit to church or parties. His image completed with Karen by his side.

Friends of the Hodgdens through many generations, we mourn your loss with you.
