“ I first met Greg at the age of 9 when he married my sister Renee. I thought wow this guy is tall! From the moment I met Greg I instantly liked him. He had a light hearted manner and a serious love of Star Trek, that he wasn't afraid to impart onto a young 9 year old boy. Teaching him all the ways of the Vulcans, I can remember many a night watching Star Trek with him and Renee with Greg poking fun at those "dorky" Star Wars fans LOL.

Seriously though, Greg and Renee had a big impact on my life. At the young age of 10 Greg and Renee introduced me to computers at his store Computer Connection in Dodge City Kansas. Little did I know that would someday lead to my future. Fast forward a few years to Enid Oklahoma. At the age of 14 Greg hosted my BBS at his computer store in Enid. For those that don't remember BBSes this was the pre_cursor to the internet. Forums, emails and the first online games were on local BBSes you'd dial into. At one point BBSes even started offering internet access. We even talked about offering internet access, but decided to pass on that "fade". Lol!

At the age of 15, Greg hired me to help after school, and eventually help run the computer store in Enid. I can vividly remember the time I sold a computer to a deaf couple and Greg told me I now had the honor of installing it in their home for them. Driving in blinding a rain storm on a dirt road, I slid off into the ditch and had to be helped by a local farmer to get back on my way. Hi Mom, bet you never knew that! Then, after 4 hours, and 20 pages writing back and forth to answer their questions, the satisfied customer finally had their computer up and going!

From these young experiences bloomed my love of all things tech and my website design company. This is where I met the Lippards, Dillinghams and many others designing their early web sites, and eventually got into the internet retail business myself years later. As you can see Greg had a huge impact on my life. God rest his sole. He will be sorely missed.
