Much of the traveling was motorhome trips and often family and or friends which shared the same enjoyment of this type of travel would join them; a caravan of fun.

Due to illness, Harold spent his final few years at The Commons, and Meda would like to thank staff for their kindness in caring for him and for the friendship she developed with them.

In addition to his wife Meda, he is survived by his children, Steven Logan and his wife Linda, Debra (Logan) Martz and her husband Douglas, and Terry Logan and his wife Kim (Moyes), his brother Rogene Logan, 7 grandchildren, 17 great grandchildren and 1 great-great granddaughter.

Harold is preceded in death by his parents, two brothers Don and Butch, his sister Nell and grandson Craig.

Harold was a devoted man who loved his wife dearly. He was a loving and caring father, grandfather and great role model for them all. He cherished his wonderful friends over the years enjoying friendly games of golf with many of them. He grew up in a musical family, he himself a very talented guitar player and singer.

“ So many years ago, when my then-husband worked for First National Bank, and we were neighbors in Willow West, I remember our trip to Arkansas together to watch the horse races--what fun we had! I also remember the party at your home to watch The Kentucky Derby and my picking the winner! You were two of the nicest people and friends we ever had. I was so saddened to read of Harold's passing in today's paper. Thinking of you and your family, Meda.
