Bob had a love of music and a beautiful voice. Some of his fondest memories being performing in chorus groups in school and around his community. This love of music continued throughout his life, often exposing others to new songs and artists in the hope of expanding their musical interests.

In his younger years Bob journeyed across the country during harvest with his family, operating a combine. Ingraining in him a lifelong spirit of exploration that he passed to his son. Taking Aaron to many of the places he visited in his youth, as well as exploring countless new ones together. However, he most frequently reminisced upon the many excursions taken to view the natural fall beauty of the Northeast with his spouse Janine (Butcher) Arterburn.

Bob is survived by his son, Aaron James Arterburn of Seattle, WA; sisters: Peggy Cooper and husband Chip of Bristow, OK; Karen Junghanns and husband Carter of Bixby, OK; Joan Kretchmar and husband Randy; Lisa Skrdla; Cindy Pratt all of Medford, OK; and brother-in-law Albert Taber of Stillwater, OK. “ Sending along my deepest sympathy to all of Bob's Arterburn sisters and son, Aaron. So many great memories of Bob when cousins still lived close to each other and the Enid Roncks saw the Arterburns frequently during Eleanor's weekly shopping trips to the "big city". Bob was always good for creating attention like the time he was practicing casting with his new fishing rod in our driveway and hooked me in the hand. That really got Eleanor's attention and mine also! Trusting Bob is now in a better place and has already posed the question——why so many sisters to tease me growing up?? Rest in peace, Bob
