“ My Dad was such a joker. I had to have several teeth removed, all at once. The anesthetic was not taking hold, my Dad was sent into the room to keep me company, as I dealt with the fears of having the teeth removed. He sat there, being as silly as he could possibly be, until my mouth finally had no feeling. The teeth were finally removed, and my Dad took me to get a slushy. He then sat watching me try and drink a slushy, with the liquid dribbling from my mouth instead of being able to swallow. Thanks for that, Dad (hahaha!)
