“ I am still in shock and just can't believe you are gone. I am sure that sentiment is shared by all of us. You know, over the years, before God brought James back to me, I had hoped he found a friend who stood by him closer than a brother. That night we first met, my worries were gone in an instant. You had been sent by God to be that friend. I knew if I never saw James again, he had you, his guardian angel here in earth. Not long after that, I met Tracie and in that moment, the four of us forged our own unique family, that time and distance could never alter. Now that you are gone, things will just never be the same. Please know, we are looking out for Tracie and Dylan and always will. We love all of you in a way that can never be changed until we are reunited in heaven. Thank you for all of the great memories, we will never forget. We love you and are going treasure our time with you forever.- James and Kassy
